Interviewing Skills

Would you tell me about yourself?
What are your strong points?

This opening statement requires only a brief reply. The interviewer is already familiar with your background through your application and resume. The interviewer is now asking for an indication of your self-confidence and your ability to handle yourself under pressure. Mention those things which you are most proud of and comfortable talking about, however, keep them job-related (skills, abilities, personal qualities, work experience, training).

In this classroom exercise we focused on personal descriptive phases.

Be prepared to give an example of your personal descriptive phrase.
